

Pass/Fail Courses (Policy)

In the Charlton College of Business, pass/fail courses can be declared and utilized ONLY to satisfy non-business electives. Pass/fail courses cannot be used to satisfy General Education requirements, Business Core requirements, and courses in the student's major field of study. The university established a 4-course maximum of pass/fail courses during a student's career at UMD, and a student can only take one course a semester. See the Registrar's office for details and deadlines to declare. If in doubt, please see an Academic Advisor. Once a declaration of a pass/fail course has been accepted and posted by the Registrar's office ... it cannot be changed to a graded course.
